

SATURDAY MORNING, APRIL 22, 1865.

Our subscribers, by mail, did not receive the Extra of Thursday because it was issued too late. To day we publish it for their benefit, with some other particulars.

Martial Law.

We understand that a wise and necessary step has been taken, in this place, in the enforcement of martial law.

Cessation of Hostilities.

Col. Urquhart, A. G., brings the important intelligence of a cessation of hostilities having been agreed upon between us and the enemy. Col. U. is commissioned and has authority to extend such orders by various channels as may reach Stoneman or other raiders, to stop them from further raids, until other orders. We understand that such orders have been extended, and have already been sent to Charleston. Hostilities thus stayed are not to be resumed without forty-eight hours notice being given on either side. Conjecture is idle in such a case, and we dare not speculate as to the issue. What is to be, will be, and we wait, for the next.

Some of the Rumors.

Among the many rumors, is one that in Yankee papers it was read that France had recognized the Confederacy. That a French fleet was off the mouth of the Mississippi, and that the French forces of Maximilian had given successful battle to a force of Federals, near the Rio Grande. So much for the French.

Another is that France and England have joined hand and have or are sending a large force to take part in the unequal struggle.

With some truth it is said that the bridge over the Catawba river is burnt.

The many rumors in regard to Chester, we believe to be without foundation as yet.

Our Difficulties

Seem to thicken and increase on every hand, and hundred tongued rumor, with possible and impossible stories threaten to demoralize the minds of the people. This is but natural in the present confused condition of affairs. Every one has his own tale to tell, and every one gulps it down readily, the biggest and last always gaining the most credence. It is almost impossible to make anything out of this confusion of tongues, and we confess to be at fault. That the danger is great, imminent, all of us know. Also that the disaster to Gen. Lee's army, in a moral aspect more particularly, is tremendous. But greater difficulties have been surmounted, worse obstacles overcome, and it will never do, just here we are thrown completely off our legs, and our ideas thrown into, by the startling intelligence of a cessation of hostilities, rendering it impossible to think of what it was our intention to say, and almost determines us to follow the suggestion of a sensible friend, and either not publish a paper until something reliable does occur, or else fill up our columns with "receipts for house-wives."

The amount of bullion deposited in the San Francisco mint last year was 178,628 ounces worth in the aggregate about $14,858,000.

The net proceeds of a ladies' fair held in Virginia City, Nevada, for the benefit of the orphans in charge of the Sisters of Charity, are estimated at $6,000 in gold.

Big finds of gold still occur among the Pacific miners. Some Chinamen recently found a piece of gold, weighing nearly seven ounces, while mining in Nevada county, California, while about the same time a miner picked up a piece of gold weighing fifty pounds, near the junction of Dog creek and the Sacramento river.

A NEIGHBORLY ACT.—A widow woman residing in the county of Robeson, a few nights ago received under her roof, a Confederate soldier, and lodged him for the night. On the same night a set of thieves conceived the design to rob the old lady's dwelling, and proceeded to put their design into execution. Her house was broken open and entered, but instead of the plunder they found the true hearted Confederate, who put two of them to death, mortally wounded a third, and left the fourth to escape with a slight wound. On examination in the morning, the three robbers turned out to be three of her neighbors.—Raleigh Confederate.

AUGUSTA, April 11.—Northern papers significantly state that Sheridan gathered two schooners loaded with negroes during his late raid in Virginia. Journalists remarking on this, remind the public that the slave trade continues from Yankee Southern ports to the West Indies and the slaveholding countries of South America.

AUGUSTA, April 17.—The enemy assaulted Columbus about noon, on Sunday, April 16th.—They skirmished with our forces through the streets, and at sunset occupied the city. The command which was supposed to number four thousand, advanced from the Montgomery and West Point Railroad.

How THE DEVIL LOST.—The following is too good to be lost. We clip it from an exchange paper and respectfully call the attention to it of certain persons who feel disposed to spread in the news paper line:

A young man, who actually desired wealth, was visited by his Satanic majesty who tempted him to promise his soul for eternity if he could be supplied on this earth with all the money he could use. The bargain was concluded; the devil was to supply the money, and was at last to have the soul unless the young man could spend more money than the devil could furnish. Years passed away; the man married, was extravagant in his living, built palaces, speculated widely, lost and gave away fortunes, and his coffers were always full. He turned politician, and bribed his way to power and fame, without reducing his pile of gold. He became a filibuster and fitted out ships and armies, but his banker honored all his drafts. He went to St. Paul to live and paid the usual rates of interest for all the money he could borrow; but though the devil made wry faces when he came to pay the bills yet they were all paid. One expedient after another failed; the devil counted the time—only two years—that he must wait for the soul, and mocked the efforts of the despairing man. One more trial was resolved upon—the man started a newspaper! The devil growled at the bill at the end of the first quarter, was savage in six months, melancholy in nine and broke, dead broke, at the end of the year. So the newspaper went down, but the soul was saved.

FIVE DAUGHTERS.—A gentleman had five daughters, all of whom he brought up to some respectable occupation in life. These daughters married, one after the other, with the consent of their father. The first married a gentleman by the name of Poor; the second, a Mr. Little; the third, a Mr. Short; the fourth, a Mr. Brown; and the fifth, a Mr. Hogg. At the wedding of the latter, her sisters, with their husbands, were present. After the ceremonies of the wedding were over, the old gentleman said to the guests, "I have taken great pains to educate my five daughters that they might act well their part in life, and from their advantages and improvements, I fondly hoped that they would do honor to the family; and now I find that all my pains, cares and expectations have turned out nothing but a Poor, Little, Short, Brown, Hogg!"

HYMENIAL.

MARRIED, April 18th, 1865, by Rev. Prof. J. P. Smeltzer, Mr. JOHN HENRY HOUSTON, to Miss KATE P. BARNELL, an of Charleston, now of Newberry, So. Ca.

We have received the compliments of the fair bride in the shape of a piece of delicious wedding cake. We wish

"Health to thy cheek, and joy to thine eye,

And be thou forever and ever blest."

OBITUARY.

DIED, at Anderson, C. H. So. Ca., March 21st, 1865, at the residence of Edward M. Moreland; SARAH CAROLINE, wife of Andrew M. Moreland, of Charleston, S. C., and youngest daughter of S. Prioleau Chisolm, of Bedford, S. C., in the 22d year of her age.

"Leaves here their time to fall—
And flowers to wither at the North winds breath,
And stars to set—but all—
Thou hast all seasons for their own Oh Death."

Truly no age or condition of humanity is exempt from this sad fatality, and our fondest earthly hopes are destined to be crushed by the "fall Destroyer." Yet his mercy ever speeds the blow if the afflicted could but view it in this light. The beautiful flowers and leaves of earth must fade with all the gifts of nature, and so the lovely child, and fairest forms of womanhood must pass away, as well as the strong proud man and old of every class. Sadly strange seems the decree of Providence that removed this lovely woman, the bride of but a few short months, who came from her desolated home at Grahamville, to sojourn in Columbia, where she met the foe with true womanly dignity that must have won admiration even from their hard hearts. For six weeks she lingered midst the ruins, there suffering all the privations that many now are still enduring, in the devastated path of Sherman's army, until her anxious husband came and brought her to this quiet retreat for safety and repose, with friends, during his absence in the army. But a few days they remained together, and when she sang those last sweet songs and dreamed so happily of future joys, they little thought that her pure young life was almost ended and a heavenly home in view.

He had been gone two days, beyond recall, when she was seized with violent convulsions, on Thursday morning March 20th, and never aroused to consciousness enough to know that she was passing away, from all she loved on earth until she was gone, winging her upward flight to realms of perfect peace and rest eternal, we doubt not; ere the next morning's sun had risen. Sadly we laid the flower-crowned bier, of the now far happier bride, to rest midst strangers here, confident of her lasting repose. Her life of consistent piety as a member of the Episcopal Church and all the evidences of her guileless womanhood lead us to believe that she is far more blest than the ever changing scenes of earth can render its children. Rejoice then sad mourners, for your "little Carrie" shall raise her sweet clear voice in far holier songs, to greet you too, to the realms of glory, "when life's fitful fever is o'er."
